Boston, Mass., Dec. 14.—The Commercial Bulletin says today in its review of the wool trade: "Wool dealers have had an excellent week. The demands from the small mills continues good. Speculation is growing, and not a little has been bought this week to hold for a rise. All grades are firm, and the general tendency is upward. Australian has sold at better prices, and domestic sales of B supers and medium fleeces have been at an advance. Territory can not be bought on as low a scoured basis as formerly, and 48s is about the inside for good fine medium."
